

Aimee Anger, GBA

Senior Health and Benefits Consultant

Mercer

Toronto, Ontario

Aimee Anger is a senior health and benefits consultant at Mercer, a global leader for innovative and strategic health and benefits solutions. She specializes in strategic management and implementation of employee benefit strategies. With over 20 years of experience in the industry, Anger brings a fresh perspective to strategic plan design. She applies critical and methodical analysis to her clients' unique needs. Anger ensures her clients are working with full transparency and a clear understanding of their initiatives, objectives and goals. Her proactive, strategic and valuable advice not only meets but regularly exceeds client expectations. A subject matter expert in aligning group benefit programs with corporate goals, Anger helps organizations achieve cost sustainability while delivering positive employee outcomes. She earned her Group Benefits Associate (GBA) through the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans and Dalhousie University.