

Adam Bradley

Co-Founder
CancerNavigator
Washington, D.C.

Adam Bradley is the co-founder of CancerNavigator, an end-to-end cancer support service for union members and their families. Adam and his brother Spencer launched CancerNavigator after years of research with union health plans on the specific risks union members and their families face. CancerNavigator's team, led by oncology certified nurses, helps members catch cancer early, get access to excellent care for their specific type and stage of cancer, and navigate the hundreds of other challenges cancer patients and their families face. Adam graduated from Princeton University in 2018.