Head of North America Institutional Client Group
Vontobel Asset Management Inc.
New York, New York

Matthew McMenemy joined Vontobel in November 2020. He is the head of the North America Institutional Client Group and is responsible for leading multi-distribution business development, client servicing and strategic marketing efforts. He focuses on opportunities and relationships with institutional investors and investment consultants in the U.S. and Canada. In addition to leading the instructional team, he is responsible for developing and servicing institutional clients for the U.S. East Coast region. Previously, he was a relationship manager, working with corporate and public pension plans, endowments, foundations and investment consulting firms to help create investment solutions. Prior to joining Vontobel, he held a range of responsibilities at Wellington Management Company in business development and relationship management of their institutional business. Before working in the investment management business, he served as a U.S. Navy officer from 2000 to 2006. Matthew holds a master's degree in business administration from the Carroll School of Management at Boston College and a bachelor of arts degree in history from Villanova University in Pennsylvania. He also holds the FINRA licenses Series 7 and 63.
